Continuing the Championship Tradition

The Maryland women's lacrosse team returns 11 starters, including National Defensive Player of the Year, Kelly Amonte, and five All-Americans, as it attempts to become the first team in the history of the NCAA Tournament to repeat as Champions.

- The Terps finished the 1995 season as the undisputed No. 1 ranked team in the nation.
- They finished with a school record 17-0 mark and defeated second-ranked Princeton, 13-5, to claim the national title.
- The Terps became the first team in the history of the NCAA Tournament to win three crowns.
- In leading the Terps to their second championship in four years, head coach Cindy Timchal became only the third coach in history to win two NCAA Championships.

Maryland's returning firepower, stockpiled reserves and a tenacious defense, make it a contender to keep the national championship trophy in College Park.

Amonte, one of the most feared players in women's lacrosse history leads a group of veterans who have helped lead Maryland to a 41-3-0 (93.2 winning percentage) record in the last three years. Amonte is a two-time First Team All-American who scored 50 goals and added 29 assists in earning National Defensive Player of the Year honors in 1995. She should become Maryland's all-time leader in overall scoring, goals and assists during the season.

An equally impressive attack tandem of senior Karen MacCrate and sophomore Cathy Nelson will help make the Terps one of the top scoring teams for the third consecutive season. MacCrate, a Second Team All-American last season, scored 22 goals and added 25 assists to rank among the nation's leaders in total points and fourth among assist leaders. She is among the top feeders in the nation and uses her speed as the source for Maryland's lethal fast-break offense. Nelson was one of the top freshmen in the nation last season and scored 20 goals and added seven assists to rank fourth on the team in scoring. She capped her inaugural collegiate season by scoring three goals versus Princeton in the national championship game.

Head Coach Cindy Timchal

The Terps midfield could be unmatched in terms of experience, scoring ability, speed, defensive tenacity and overall skill. Junior Sarah Forbes, a third team All-American selection in 1995, will be joined by senior Randall Goldsborough, junior Caryl Duckworth and sophomore Sascha Newmarch.

Forbes has the ability to control a game at any time with her speed and stickwork. She has the ability to play an up-tempo game and goes to the goal as hard as any player in the country. She possess the ability to control a game on the defensive end with her incredible stickwork.

At midfield, Goldsborough, Newmarch and Duckworth form a lightening quick, offensively talented and high scoring trio. Goldsborough, who is one of the nation's fastest players, scored 12 goals and added a career high seven assists a season ago. She scored three goals during the 1995 NCAA Tournament and is a member of the U.S. Developmental Squad. Newmarch burst on to the lacrosse scene and scored 23 goals to lead Maryland's extraordinarily talented group of freshmen in goal scoring. She started all 17 games during her first season and scored a highlight film goal versus Princeton in the national title game. Duckworth will once again be a valuable contributor in the Terps' midfield. Her speed and poise makes her a valuable offensive threat.

Maryland's solid defense will be anchored by senior Liz Downing, a Second Team All-American in 1995, junior Dana Gwaltney and senior Tami Riley.

Downing was an All-NCAA tournament team selection in 1995. She leads Maryland's denial defense which allowed a national low 4.3 goals per game and she found time to score a career high five goals. She is the team's most consistent player.

Gwaltney may be the team's strongest one-on-one defender. She uses her speed to match the top attackers. She is the foundation of Maryland's defense which limited Princeton to a season low five goals in the national title game. Her versatility helped her score nine goals on the offensive end of the field.

Riley, a hard-nosed, competitive player is a strong, stay-at-home defender who can be counted on to take on any defensive assignment. Her stickwork and stick checking ability makes her a very valuable player.

Jamie Brodsky, the Terps starting goalkeeper, was a Third Team All-American after posting a career best .667 save percentage in 1995. She was named to the NCAA All-tournament team following two outstanding performances in the national semifinal and championship game. She recorded 10 saves against both Penn State and Princeton, many of the breath-taking variety. Senior Kirsten Kruhm, who also enjoyed her best season in 1995, is a capable back-up goalie. Kruhm recorded her career best in saves percentage (.588) and saves (30).

Cindy Timchal

Head Coach

Cindy Timchal is one of the top five winningest coaches in the history of women's lacrosse and is one of only two coaches to have won multiple National Championships. She has won more than 90 percent of her games and has led Maryland to a pair of NCAA Championships since her arrival in College Park in 1991.

Timchal has coached all five of her Maryland teams to the NCAA Division I Tournament, winning titles in 1992 and 1995. The Terps have played in the National Championship game four times in the last five years. Last year, she led the Maryland to its first undefeated, untied season in the storied history of Maryland women's lacrosse. The Terps became only the third team in the history of the sport to win the National Championship without a loss or a tie.

In 1995, Timchal guided the Terps to the top seed in the national tournament and the No. 1 ranking in the national poll. Maryland has been ranked first during each of her five seasons at Maryland. The Terps were ranked No. 1 following both the 1994 and 1995 seasons.

Timchal has a record of 69-7 (.907) during her five-year tenure at Maryland. She has built Maryland into the winningest program in the nation during the decade of the 90s. Her teams have not finished lower than third nationally and annually play schedules recognized to be among the toughest in the nation.

Timchal's coaching career at Maryland can be characterized as nothing short of remarkable. She came to Maryland in 1991 following nine highly successful years at Northwestern. In her first year, Timchal guided Maryland to a 14-2 record and into the national championship game despite taking over the Terps only two weeks prior to the season opener.

In 1992, Timchal directed Maryland to its third national championship. Attaining the national championship wasn't easy as the Terps had to defeat 1991 National Champion Virginia and then turn back Harvard, the 1990 national champions, for the title.

During her nine years at Northwestern, Timchal's record was 76-40 (.655). She coached the Wildcats to the national tournament five times including consecutive fifth place finishes, 1986-88.

A native of Pennsylvania, Timchal attended West Chester University where she lettered in lacrosse, tennis and track and field. Following her graduation, she became an assistant coach in Unionville (Pa.) High School, where she coached lacrosse, field hockey and basketball.

In 1979, she joined the collegiate ranks, as she became an assistant lacrosse and field hockey coach at the University of Pennsylvania. Following one very successful season at Penn, she became the head lacrosse coach at Northwestern.

Timchal is a member of the Intercollegiate Women's Lacrosse Association and is an active, and dedicated clinician and ambassador of the sport. She oversees numerous summer camp programs along the east coast.

The University of Maryland at College Park

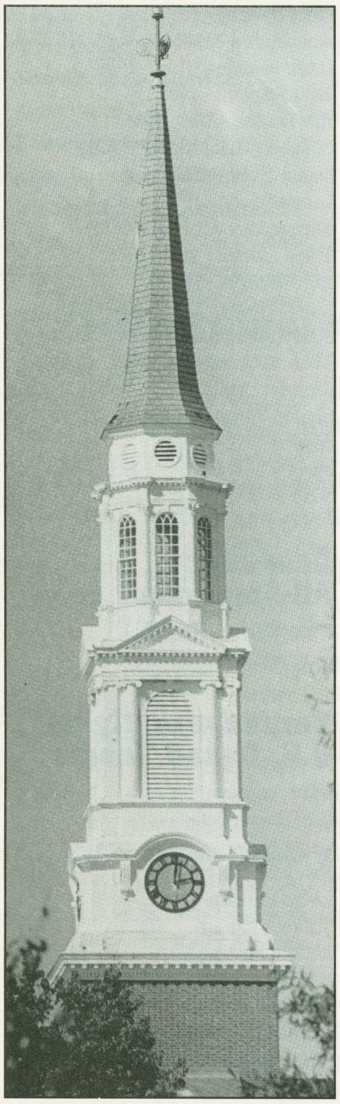
Maryland's campus is unrivaled in its scenic beauty.



Memorial Chapel

The state of Maryland is unrivaled in its scenic beauty, its rich heritage, and its wealth of educational, recreational, and cultural opportunities. From the mountain passes of Garrett County in the west, to the sand dunes of Assateague Island on the Eastern Shore, and the cosmopolitan excitement of Baltimore and Washington, D.C., there is unparalleled variety of experiences and resources available to students at the university.

Nine miles from the nation's capital, the University of Maryland at College Park is within easy reach of the country's best research facilities. The Library of Congress, the National Archives, the Smithsonian Institution and the National Libraries of Agriculture and Medicine are among the many unique resources in the area.

In addition to traditional scholarly resources, the campus is surrounded by the dynamic cultural opportunities that only a major metropolitan area can provide. The Kennedy Center alone houses the National Symphony Orchestra, five performance stages, an opera company, and the American Film Institute. In Baltimore, one of the great ports of the world, a recent and remarkable renaissance has added the glistening touch of office towers and hotels to the quaint shops and ethnic restaurants of its many colorful neighborhoods. Harborplace and the National Aquarium anchor the Inner Harbor, which has become a cultural magnet for thousands of tourists each year.

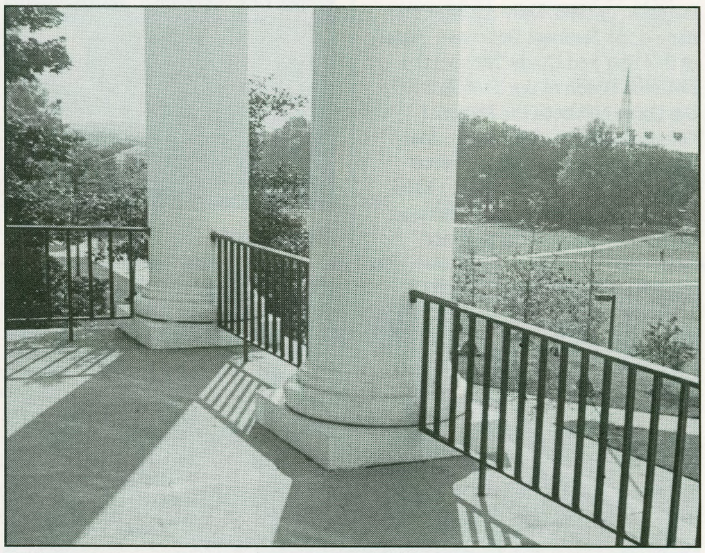
The Chesapeake Bay accounts for nearly 20 percent of Maryland's acreage, and is a focal point for the serious study of estuarine ecology as well as a recreational treasure. It is the source of Maryland's famed crabs and other seafood specialties, and a refuge for many species of water fowl.

Not far from any point in the state is evidence of the burgeoning development which has made Maryland a model for economic growth and fiscal health. High tech, engineering, and service industries thrive in proximity to the campus, offering a wide spectrum of opportunities for work study or internships for students and career choices for graduates.

The University of Maryland at College Park, as the flagship campus of the state higher education system, is a vital part of Maryland's current prosperity and its vision for the future. For students here, the state offers a bountiful extension to the campus' own wealth of opportunity.

Our location adds to the excitement on campus, too. Few regions in the nation have the intellectual, cultural and physical resources to compare with those in the Baltimore-Washington, DC. corridor. College Park's location within that corridor means that Maryland undergraduates may tap these resources to their fullest – through internships, research projects, cooperative work-study and other programs offering hands-on experience.

We invite you to take a closer look at the University of Maryland, its extensive academic programs, faculty, research facilities, student activities and support services and the resources and opportunities it offers. See for yourself the number of different ways in which Maryland is choosing quality. There has never been a better time to choose Maryland.



The campus offers many broad horizons.

The Hornbake Library is a great meeting place.

Maryland Tradition

The Maryland Women's Lacrosse program has earned its position among the nation's elite programs. The Terps have won two national championships in the last five years, three NCAA Championships and four National Championships. The Terps are one of only two programs nationally to have won three NCAA Championships.

Maryland played in the national tournament for the 16th time in 1995. The Terps won their fourth national championship in 1995 – the most ever by any Maryland team. Maryland has reached the National Tournament Finals an unprecedented 12 times including five of the last six seasons. The Terps have played for the national championship in four of the last five seasons.

Maryland's players are among the most decorated in the history of the sport. The Terps have had at least one player named All-American every year since 1980. In each of the past two years, Maryland has had six All-Americans, more than any other team in the sport of women's lacrosse. In 1995, Kelly Amonte was named the National Defensive Player of the Year and Cindy Timchal the National Coach of the Year. In 1990, the Terps had both the National Offensive Player of the Year – Mary Ann Oelgoetz – and the National Defensive Player of the Year – Mary Kondner. In 1991, Michelle Uhlfelder became the second Terp to earn National Offensive Player of the Year honors. Mandy Stevenson became the first Terp to earn National Goalkeeper of the Year honors while Kerstin Manning earned National Defensive Player of the Year honors in 1993. In 1994, Betsy Elder became the third Maryland player to receive the National Offensive Player of the Year Award.

Lacrosse success follows the Maryland players into the international realm. Several former Terps participated on both the 1989 and 1993 Gold Medal winning world cup teams and several are slated to compete the next world championships.
